Ayla: The registration deadline is Friday, isn't it?

Mert: ----

Ayla: Then I still have the weekend to think it over.

Mert: I would decide sooner — the early rate ends on Friday anyway.

- A) Yes, and late applications are never accepted.
- B) No, the conference itself begins on Friday.
- C) Actually, they have pushed it back to Monday.
- D) I have never registered for a conference before.
- E) You should ask the organisers about the fee.

Doctor: Have you been taking the tablets at the same time each day?

Patient: ----

Doctor: That may explain why your readings are still so uneven.

- A) Not really — some days at night, some days in the morning.
- B) Yes, always at eight in the morning without fail.
- C) I stopped taking them about a month ago.
- D) The pharmacy gave me a different brand this time.
- E) I have never had my blood pressure measured.

Tenant: The heating has not worked since Tuesday.

Landlord: ----

Tenant: I called twice, but nobody picked up.

- A) Then I will send someone over tomorrow morning.
- B) The heating was serviced only last month.
- C) You should not need the radiators in summer.
- D) Did you report it to the maintenance line?
- E) I am afraid that repair is not covered.

Student: I am thinking of switching from chemistry to biology.

Advisor: ----

Student: I know, but I would rather lose a term than finish a degree I do not want.

- A) That is an excellent idea; you should apply today.
- B) You realise that would add at least a term to your degree?
- C) Biology and chemistry have exactly the same requirements.
- D) I have never advised a student on this before.
- E) The biology department has closed its enrolment.

Colleague: Did the client accept the revised timeline?

Manager: ----

Colleague: So we are back to the original deadline, then.

- A) They asked for two more weeks, which I granted.
- B) I have not spoken to them since last month.
- C) They cancelled the contract this morning.
- D) They accepted it without asking for any changes.
- E) No — they want the delivery date we first agreed on.

Passenger: Is this the platform for the Manchester train?

Staff: ----

Passenger: Thanks — I had better hurry, then.

- A) The Manchester train was cancelled about an hour ago.
- B) You can buy your ticket from the machine over there.
- C) It is, but it leaves from the far end in four minutes.
- D) All trains to Manchester leave from platform nine.
- E) I am afraid I do not work for the railway.

Researcher: The sample size is smaller than we planned.

Supervisor: ----

Researcher: I would rather report it honestly than overstate what we found.

- A) Then be careful about how strongly you word the conclusion.
- B) In that case, we should call the result definitive.
- C) Sample size has no bearing on the conclusion at all.
- D) You will need to collect the data again from scratch.
- E) I was not aware that you had collected any data.

Neighbour: I am sorry about the noise last night.

Resident: ----

Neighbour: Still, I should have warned you it would run so late.

- A) It kept me awake until three in the morning.
- B) Please never hold a party in this building again.
- C) I was away all weekend, so I heard nothing at all.
- D) Honestly, it did not bother me that much.
- E) You will have to speak to the building manager.
